DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 11, 12, and 14-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by US Patent 6478122 to Demoise Jr. et al.

Re: claim 11. Demoise Jr. et al. show in figures 2 and 3 a brake holder of a floating caliper disc brake with axially extending holder arms 11 at which an associated brake pad 24 is arranged on a side of a brake disc and mountable radially in the brake holder comprising at least one brake pad guide spring 60 arranged on one of the holder arms between the brake holder and the brake pad as shown in figure 3, wherein the brake pad guide spring is locked at the brake holder in both radial (via elements 80 and 80') and axial directions by way of element 68 by means of at least one fixing clamp 68 wherein a cantilevered spring arm 70 (cantilevered with respect to portion 32 of the guide spring) is designed at the brake pad guide spring and bears radially inwardly against the brake pad at the surface below element 80 shown in figure 3 under a spring bias, the cantilevered spring arm being bendable against the spring bias and toward the holder arm on which it is arranged to facilitate mounting of the brake pad onto the brake holder in a generally radial direction.

Re: claim 12. Demoise shows the at least one fixing clamp 68, for example, being locked at a radial undercut or indentation shown in the area of element 30.

Re: claims 14 and 19. Demoise shows the limitation wherein the spring arm includes a first portion shown in the area of 80 forming a radial stop for the mounted brake pad. Examiner notes that the slope is particularly shown in the area of the lead line of 80.

Re: claim 15. Demoise shows the limitation wherein the locked brake pad guide spring bears in a clearance free manner at least against guiding surfaces shown in the area shown below element 80 provided for the displaceable arrangement of the brake pad on the brake holder.

Re: claims 16-18. Demoise shows the limitation wherein a mounting ramp 80 is provided at the spring arm for a radial brake pad assembly.

Re: claim 20. Demoise shows the limitation wherein the biasing force on the spring arm is variable in dependence on the axial position of the brake pad at the slope when the brake pad is mounted. Examiner notes that less biasing force is achieved if the pad is mounted on an area at the end of the lead line of 80 as opposed to below the lead line of 80.

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection. Examiner notes that the new grounds of rejection result from a new interpretation of the cantilevered spring arm in the Demoise reference.

Conclusion

4. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
